

Canadian and International Education / Education canadienne et internationale

Volume 23 | Issue 2

Article 8

10-24-2012

Notes on Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <http://ir.lib.uwo.ca/cie-eci>

Recommended Citation

(1994) "Notes on Contributors," Canadian and International Education / Education canadienne et internationale: Vol. 23: Iss. 2, Article 8.
Available at: <http://ir.lib.uwo.ca/cie-eci/vol23/iss2/8>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by Scholarship@Western. It has been accepted for inclusion in Canadian and International Education / Education canadienne et internationale by an authorized administrator of Scholarship@Western. For more information, please contact kmarsh1@uwo.ca.

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

Jing Lin is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Administration and Policy Studies in Education at McGill University. She has published three books with the Praeger Publisher: The Red Guards' Path to Violence (1991), Education in Post-Mao China (1993), and The Opening of the Chinese Mind (1994). She has written on minority education, educational reform, women and education in China. At McGill she teaches course on sociology of education, comparative education, women and education, and national educational systems (China).

D.T. Gamage is a professor at the Faculty of Education, University of Newcastle - in New South Wales, Australia. He is intensively published in the Educational Management and Administration, the Journal of Education Administration, and Studies in Higher Education. He focuses on Community's involvement in management of education institutions and has studied the merger of two Universities, La Trobe and Lincoln, in Australia.

Andrew S. Hughes is Professor of Education in the Division of Curriculum and Instruction at Faculty of Education, University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, New Brunswick. He is a former Dean of Education at UNB, former Associate Director of the Atlantic Institute of Education in Halifax and former President of the Canadian Society for Curriculum Studies.

Jianping Shen is a Ph.D. candidate and research assistant in the Centre for Educational Renewal, College of Education, University of Washington. His research interests include comparative education, policy analysis, and educational research methodology.

Kara Smith is an English teacher (OAC) at Wallaceburg District Secondary School, in the Kent County Board of Education. Of Scottish origin, Kara is very active in promoting the learning of Gaelic in Ontario. Kara has articles forthcoming in the Journal/Association of Scottish Literary Studies [ASLS], and for the March 1995 Conference of North American Association of Celtic Language Teachers.

David Wilson is Professor of Adult and Comparative Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education. He is a former President of the World Congress of Comparative Education Societies and Past President of the Comparative and International Education Society. His major research activities have been focussed on the impact of technical-vocational education and training in developing countries.